Krungsri and Danamon to Build P2P Settlement Network and Offer New Remittance Service

Tokyo, April 27, 2022 -- MUFG's core banking subsidiary MUFG Bank today announced that Bank of Ayudhya Public Company Limited (Krungsri) and PT Bank Danamon Indonesia, Tbk (Danamon), consolidated subsidiaries of MUFG and MUFG Bank, have entered into a Real-Time Cross Border Funds Transfer Agreement to jointly establish a peer-to-peer (P2P) settlement network (the Network) that enables the execution of overseas remittances instantly, anytime and at a lower cost, and to develop a new overseas remittance service (the Service)^[1]. By offering the Service, the two banks will provide even greater convenience and flexibility to corporate and retail customers needing to transfer funds between Thailand and Indonesia.

1. Purpose and background

As part of our business strategy for the ASEAN region, MUFG and MUFG Bank made Krungsri and Danamon consolidated subsidiaries in December 2013 and April 2019, respectively. Since becoming consolidated subsidiaries, the two banks have focused on promoting knowledge sharing and formulating collaborative initiatives. The Service marks the first joint business between the two banks.

In recent years, competition in the field of overseas remittances has intensified due to the entry of new service providers making offering more added value vital in encouraging customers to choose our services. The establishment of the Network, which utilizes leading edge API^[2] technology, will enable customers to make remittances 24/7 at a cost lower than with conventional services. Through this effort, we will aim to provide competitive services in overseas remittances between Thailand and Indonesia in this new digital era.

2. Outline of the Service

The Service connects the two banks using leading edge API technology in compliance with the laws and regulations of Thailand and Indonesia, and is intended for USD denominated overseas remittances between the two countries. Currently, only fund transfers from Danamon to Krungsri are available, but further development is under way to enhance capabilities with the aim of enabling two-way remittances as soon as possible. At present, the main users are envisioned as being local companies and individuals needing to transfer funds between the two countries. However, with 5,856 Japanese companies operating in Thailand and 1,959 in Indonesia^[3], we will consider expanding functionality in the future to cater to a wider range of customers^[4].

Starting with the establishment of the Network between the two banks and the provision of the Service, after assessing customer needs and usage situations, we will aim to expand the Network with connecting MUFG Bank and other banks MUFG Bank has invested in to the Network in mind.

MUFG has identified our Asia business as one growth field in our current medium-term business plan, and we aim to develop strategies and initiatives that address the high-growth ASEAN region from a broad perspective. The Service is one example of these efforts. We will continue leveraging the functions of our partner banks, including Krungsri and Danamon, to provide new value and to continue to strive to achieve our purpose of being "Committed to empowering a brighter future."

^[1] At present, the maximum amount is set at USD 100,000 and non-trade transactions are an eligible remittance purpose.

^[2] API refers to connection specifications and rules for connecting applications. API connections are used as a means to improve convenience, enhance added value, and reduce cost for various online services.

^[4] With the launch of the Service, we aim to provide greater convenience for trade between the two countries, which is estimated to be worth approximately USD 16.988 billion annually (per the Bank of Thailand).
